RUSSIA NOW CONTROLS OUTER MONGOLIA

Soldiers To Come Home More Slowly Now

POINT CUTTING TO SLOWDOWN FROM NOW ON

New Plans Will Make It Tougher To Get Out Of The Army

NAVY PLANS NEW CUT

Points Drop Again Soon With 188,750 Becoming Eligible For Discharge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—Army discharge point requirements will be lowered more slowly from now on and occupation needs rather than shipping will determine how quickly men are returned from overseas.

Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army information chief, indicated that the Army will cut its discharge point total again February 1 but that the reductions probably will be smaller. He said nearly 4,000,000 troops have been returned from overseas since V-E day.

Meanwhile, the Navy announced new point reductions through March 2 which will make an additional 188,750 officers and enlisted personnel eligible for discharge.

The critical point scores for most enlisted men under the new schedule will be set at 33 on February 15 and 32 on March 2. The critical point score for enlisted men now is set at 34 effective February 2.

The Army's critical score for enlisted men has dropped from 85 points after V-E day to 50 on January 1. At the same time, service requirements dropped from four years to 42 months.

Cuts on this scale can't continue, Collins said, because there will be a slowing down in the rate of return of overseas soldiers.

"Our overseas forces would be dangerously understrength in occupying hostile countries if all eligible men were to be returned before sufficient replacements arrived," Collins said.

He said 650,000 soldiers were returned to this country in November and 860,000 in December. Only about 500,000 will be brought home in January, however. Thereafter returns will drop to about 300,000 a month.

Collins said demobilization has reached a point where occupation needs rather than shipping is the prime factor. The 1,553,000 men still overseas could be brought home in three months, he said, but it would cripple the work of the occupation forces.

As a result, surplus shipping will be used in part in carrying war brides and dependents of soldiers who married overseas. About 600 of these are expected to arrive from Europe this month. The rate will be stepped up rapidly after that.

By July 1 the Army's planned overseas strength will be 797,000. Collins said, including 335,000 in Europe, 375,000 in the Pacific and 87,000 in other overseas areas. Filipinos now in training will replace some 50,000 Americans in the Philippines late in 1946.

The home establishment will include 360,000 supply, hospital and (Continued on Page Two)

Manufacturers May Get Price Increase To Stop Meat and Steel Strikes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—The government today studied the possibility of averting threatened nationwide walkouts in the steel and meat packing industries by increasing manufacturers' prices while holding the line on retail prices.

Fact-finding panels in both disputes were scheduled to meet next week to go over the situation.

Both panels probably will explore the possibility of increasing producer prices while holding the line on retail prices through government subsidies.

The government began a study of possible increases in meat producers' prices following a conference yesterday between top administration leaders. The office of price administration previously began a study of steel prices at the request of the President.

Members of the United Steelworkers union (CIO) are scheduled to strike Jan. 14 at U. S. Steel Corp. and 1,400 other companies unless management meets their demand for a $2-a-day wage increase or offers an acceptable compromise.

The meat workers have set Jan. 16 for a walkout which virtually would halt the flow of fresh meat to the nation's retail butcher shops. They are represented by the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) which seeks a 25 cents hourly raise.

There also was a strong possibility that the CIO workers would be joined by 135,000 AFL meat packers if they did strike.

The issues are identical in each dispute. Both the steel companies and the meat packers contend they cannot grant further wage increases within their present price structure.

PATTERSON SAYS NO NEW RELEASE PLAN STUDIED

TOKYO, Jan. 5—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson today denied that the war department was studying a plan to set March 20 as the deadline for release of Army men with two years service.

Patterson made the denial when questioned about published interviews he had granted to Stars and Stripes reporters at Honolulu and Guam in which he was quoted as saying such a plan was being studied.

"Such a plan is not under study by the war department at this time," Patterson said.

"The point system, or method of accumulation of points has not been changed. V-J day is still the date to which points may be accumulated," he added.

Open City Declaration Was Ignored

Witnesses Say Japs Paid No Attention To MacArthur Manila Announcement

MANILA, Jan. 5—Japanese bombers ignored Gen. Douglas MacArthur's declaration of Manila as an open city, witnesses testified today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Two witnesses, Don Bell, an American radio announcer, and A. L. Valencia of the Manila Daily Bulletin staff, told the U. S. military tribunal there was no question about Japanese knowing of the declaration.

They said they attended a conference in MacArthur's headquarters Dec. 26, 1941, saw a copy of the declaration and heard it broadcast at frequent intervals in the Japanese language. They said they heard radio Tokyo admit the same evening that the broadcast declaration had been received.

Valencia testified that the next day he saw Japanese bombers, flying singly, drop bombs on the walled city and port area, killing 40 (Continued on Page Two)

JAP CABINET IN FINAL SESSION

Present Members Expected To Quit Following MacArthur Order

TOKYO, Jan. 6—(Sunday)—The cabinet of Premier Kijuro Shidehara will meet today—perhaps for the last time—as the full impact of General MacArthur's directives barring from public office all who "deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest" struck into the nation's highest councils.

Whether the Shidehara cabinet would resign as a body was a matter of serious political discussion among the 20 or more political parties seeking recognition at the forthcoming general elections.

One newspaper said the downfall of the present government is a "foregone conclusion."

Most observers believed that at least a severe shakeup is in order because at least three members of the cabinet fell into the category of "undesirables" laid down by MacArthur's directives.

There also was the possibility that the cabinet, weakened now by a crossfire of criticism because of its inability to put into effect various political and economic reforms ordered by MacArthur, may give way as a whole in favor of more energetic leadership.

The cabinet was to have met in extraordinary session Saturday to discuss the far-reaching MacArthur directives. Telegrams were sent to members out of Tokyo or (Continued on Page Two)

GIRL, 14, HELD FOR KIDNAPING OF CAB DRIVER

DENTON, Tex., Jan. 5—Fourteen-year-old Eva Lee Knoop, who "got tired of going to school and decided to be an outlaw," was held for juvenile authorities today after kidnapping a 200-pound taxicab driver.

Eva Lee, a pint-sized brunet weighing 90 pounds, was identified late yesterday by E. L. Howard as the girl who forced him to drive her from Denton to Madill, Okla., at the point of a gun.

The pistol, which Sheriff Harmon Spicer said was the "littlest" he'd ever seen, measured approximately three inches, was unloaded.

But then, as the red-faced driver explained, you can't always tell about a gun when you're looking at the wrong end of it.

Howard said Eva Lee climbed into the back seat of his cab, made him hand over $4 in change and told him to "get out of Texas." It being a big state, he chose the shortest route.

At Least 150 Injured, Many Missing After High Winds Cut Damaging Path

Tornado Blasts Destructive Path 100 To 200 Yards Wide Across Area

PALESTINE, Tex., Jan. 5—Twenty bodies have been accounted for and at least six others were reported dead today from tornadoes which cut a disastrous path across east Texas.

At least 150 persons were injured and an undetermined number missing after the high winds ravaged small communities in the area of Palestine and Nacogdoches, 60 miles to the southeast.

The known dead included 12 in the Palestine area, six at Nacogdoches and two at Clawson, a sawmill community near Lufkin.

Two of the dead at Nacogdoches were reported to have been brought to mortuaries there from Appleby, a small community 10 miles north of Nacogdoches.

In addition, "five or six" Negroes were reported killed when the storm struck and demolished a gymnasium while a basketball game was in progress at Shiloh St. Paul in Leon county, southwest of here.

Three Cases Ignored By January Jurors; 25 Witnesses Appear

The case of Henry Shaffer, 29, truckdriver of 143 York street, and two other cases were ignored by the January grand jury of common pleas court at its meeting in the court house Friday.

Shaffer had been charged with taking indecent liberties with a child under the age of 14. Other cases ignored were those of William Leslie Barnhart and Thomas James Blackwell, discharged servicemen of Circleville, who had been charged with grand larceny.

Persons indicted and charges are as follows:

Harold A. Hummel—Malicious shooting with intent to kill.

Orrin Dorsey Diltz—Assault with intent to kill.

Robert Merrick—Failure to provide.

Probers Study Evidence Navy Captain Predicted Pearl Harbor Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee studied evidence today that a Navy captain predicted the time and type of the impending Japanese attack the Summer before it actually occurred.

The officer, Capt. E. M. Zacharias, will be called before the committee soon after it ends its 10-day recess scheduled to begin today. Zacharias was the commander of the U. S. cruiser Salt Lake City.

Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Navy and Army commanders at Hawaii at the time of the attack, are to be the first witnesses after the recess. Zacharias may follow them to the witness stand.

Zacharias' prediction was read into committee records late yesterday. It was contained in a memorandum he wrote March 17, 1942—three months after the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., pointed out that although the memorandum was not written until after the attack, it was endorsed by a witness who confirmed that Zacharias made the predictions earlier.

Ferguson introduced the memorandum in an effort to learn more about the identity of the subscribing witness—Curtis B. Munson.

He pointed out that Zacharias' memorandum referred to Munson as a visitor in the Summer of 1941. It said he had a letter of introduction from Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Stark said he didn't remember Munson or the circumstances of his visit to Hawaii. He said he would try to find out and report back to the committee.

COUPLE MARRIED FOURTH TIME; DIVORCED THRICE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5—Mrs. George William Ettinger felt like the "same old bride" today after her fourth marriage to the husband she had divorced three times. "It's been a case of two years on, two years off; three years on; three years off; a year and a half on, two years off—but now that we're together again, it seems as if we've never been separated," she said.

Mrs. Ettinger said she doesn't believe in letting her husband take her for granted, which may explain why she persists in divorcing him.

"I know it sounds silly," she said, "but we never quarrel. We love each other very much and neither of us would dream of marrying anyone else."

Ettinger, a commercial artist, said he always lets his wife have her own way "100 per cent." The red-haired Mrs. Ettinger agreed and approved.

And, in spite of instability of their marital status, she asserted he filled all her qualifications for a perfect husband.

CHINA RELEASES ALL RIGHTS TO BOSS COUNTRY

Independence Of Territory Recognized After People Vote To Be Free

LARGE AREA IS LOST

1,000,000 Square Miles Of Territory Lost By China, Largest In 100 Years

CHUNGKING, Jan. 5—China recognized the independence of Outer Mongolia today after a unanimous Mongolian plebiscite, officially ceding to Soviet Russia a dominant role over 1,000,000 square miles of territory about which the two powers have argued for 25 years.

The plebiscite was held by open ballot on Oct. 20 after China promised she would grant independence if a majority of the Mongolians voted for it.

Granting of independence marks the biggest official Chinese territorial loss in 100 years. However, Outer Mongolia has been independent for practical purposes for a quarter of a century. China has maintained official sovereignty over the territory, but has been without administrative power there since 1920, when the Soviet influence spread through the area.

The Russians have strongly supported the "Mongolian people's republic." They have called it "a true ally of the USSR for many years."

Reliable sources said the supreme national defense council's action resulted from a recommendation made by Chiang Kai-Shek, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's son, who is visiting Moscow as his father's personal envoy.

Outer Mongolia lies along the southern frontiers of the Soviet Union to the north of China. It is a sparsely settled, rugged land interlarded by many rivers. The population totals roughly 1,000,000—one person to every square mile. In the northeastern corner of Outer Mongolia is the great wall of Ghengis Kahn, built as a protection against invasion.

Official Chinese abandonment of Outer Mongolia was part of a deal made when the Sino-Soviet treaty was signed last August. China agreed to give up Outer Mongolia in return for Soviet support for Chiang Kai-Shek's government against the Chinese Communists, and recognition of Chinese sovereignty over Manchuria.

The recognition marks the final accomplishment of a Russian aspiration in central Asia that has existed for half a century.

The Chinese ministry of interior sent a delegation from Chungking to supervise the plebiscite. The delegation returned to Chungking and reported that they had been so restricted in their movement by Mongolian officials that they could not ascertain whether the plebiscite expressed the free will of the Mongolian people.

Delegates said they were confined mostly to the Mongolian capitol, Ulan Bator, formerly called Urga.

The Mongolians refused a suggestion by the Chungking authorities that they send a delegation to Chungking to report the plebiscite results.

Russia stated that it had no intention of interfering in the conflict in Sinkiang, which it called China's internal affair. Sinkiang's western frontier adjoins the Soviet Union.

REPORTS STATE CHINESE WAR IS NEAR END

CHUNGKING, Jan. 5—The national government and the Communists have agreed on a procedure for ending hostilities in China's civil war and for restoration of communications, it was announced tonight.

Details of the suspension of hostilities and restoration of communications will be worked out immediately. K. C. Wu, minister of information, announced. The unity conference delegations of Chou En-Lai, Communist leader, and Chang Chun, governor of Szechwan, to meet and work out the detailed plan.

Wu said that Chou and Chang probably would issue the actual cease-fire order after conferring with Gen. George G. Marshall.

188,750 Becoming Eligible
For Discharge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—Army discharge point requirements will be lowered more slowly from now on and occupation needs rather than shipping will determine how quickly men are returned from overseas.

Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army information chief, indicated that the Army will cut its discharge point total again February 1 but that the reductions probably will be smaller. He said nearly 4,000,000 troops have been returned from overseas since V-E day.

Meanwhile, the Navy announced new point reductions through March 2 which will make an additional 188,750 officers and enlisted personnel eligible for discharge.

The critical point scores for most enlisted men under the new schedule will be set at 33 on February 1 and 32 on March 2. The critical point score for enlisted men now is set at 34 effective February 2.

The Army's critical score for enlisted men has dropped from 85 points after V-E day to 50 on January 1. At the same time, service requirements dropped from four years to 42 months.

Cuts on this scale can't continue, Collins said, because there will be a slowing down in the rate of return of overseas soldiers.

"Our overseas forces would be dangerously understrength in occupying hostile countries if all el-fore sufficient replacements arrived," Collins said.

He said 650,000 soldiers were reber and 860,000 in December. Only about 500,000 will be brought home in January, however. Thereafter returns will drop to about 300,000

Collins said demobilization has it would cripple the work of the

Manufacturers May Get Price Increase To Stop Meat and Steel Strikes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—The government today studied the possibility of averting threatened nationwide walkouts in the steel and meat packing industries by increasing manufacturers' prices while holding the line on retail prices.

Fact-finding panels in both disputes were scheduled to meet next week to go over the situation.

Both panels probably will explore the possibility of increasing producer prices while holding the line on retail prices through government subsidies.

The government began a study of possible increases in meat producers' prices following a confer-price administration previously began a study of steel prices at the request of the President.

Members of the United Steel-

Patterson made the denial when questioned about published inter-

Probers Study Evidence Navy Captain Predicted Pearl Harbor Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee studied evidence today that a Navy captain predicted the time and type of the impending Japanese attack the summer before it actually occurred.

The officer, Capt. E. M. Zacharias, will be called before the committee soon after it ends its 10-day recess scheduled to begin today. Zacharias was the commander of the U. S. cruiser Salt Lake City.

Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Navy and Army commanders at Hawaii at the time of the attack, are to be the first witnesses after the recess. Zacharias may follow them to the witness stand.

Zacharias' prediction was read into committee records late yesterday. It was contained in a memorandum he wrote March 17, 1942
—three months after the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, R. Mich., pointed out that although the memorandum was not written until after the attack, it was endorsed by a witness who confirmed that Zacharias made the predictions earlier.

Ferguson introduced the memorandum in an effort to learn more about the identity of the subscribing witness—Curtis B.
Munson.

He pointed out that Zacharias' memorandum referred to Munson as a visitor in the summer of 1941. It said he had a letter of introduction from Adm. Harold R.
Stark, chief of naval operations.

Stark said he didn't remember Munson or the circumstances of his visit to Hawaii. He said he would try to find out and report back to the committee.

Ferguson suggested that Mun-

COUPLE MARRIED FOURTH TIME; DIVORCED THRICE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5—Mrs.
George William Ettinger felt like the "same old bride" today after her fourth marriage to the husband she had divorced three times.
"It's been a case of two years on,
two years off; three years on;
three years off; a year and a half on, two years off—but now that we're together again, it seems as if we've never been separated," she said.

Mrs. Ettinger said she doesn't believe in letting her husband take her for granted, which may explain why she persists in divorcing him.

"I know it sounds silly," she said,
"but we never quarrel. We love each other very much and neither of us would dream of marrying anyone else."

Ettinger, a commercial artist, said he always lets his wife have her own way "100 per cent." The red-haired Mrs. Ettinger agreed and approved.

And, in spite of instability of their marital status, she asserted he filled all her qualifications for a perfect husband.

CHINA RELEASES ALL RIGHTS TO BOSS COUNTRY

Independence Of Territory
Recognized After People
Vote To Be Free

LARGE AREA IS LOST

1,000,000 Square Miles Of Territory Lost By China,
Largest In 100 Years

CHUNGKING, Jan. 5—China recognized the independence of Outer Mongolia today after a unanimous Mongolian plebiscite, officially ceding to Soviet Russia a dominant role over 1,000,000 square miles of territory about which the two powers have argued for 25 years.

The plebiscite was held by open ballot on Oct. 20 after China promised she would grant independence if a majority of the Mongolians voted for it.

Granting of independence marks the biggest official Chinese territorial loss in 100 years. However, Outer Mongolia has been independent for practical purposes for a quarter of a century. China has maintained official sovereignty over the territory, but has been without administrative power there since 1920, when the Soviet influence spread through the area.

The Russians have strongly supported the "Mongolian people's republic." They have called it "a tried ally of the USSR for many years."

Reliable sources said the supreme national defense council's action resulted from a recommendation by Chiang Ching Kuo, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's son, who is visiting Moscow as his father's personal envoy.

Outer Mongolia lies along the southern frontiers of the Soviet Union to the north of China. It is a sparsely settled, rugged land interlaced by many rivers. The population totals roughly 1,000,000
—one person to every square mile.
In the northeastern corner of Outer Mongolia is the great wall of Ghengis Kahn, built as a protection against invasion.

Official Chinese abandonment of Outer Mongolia was part of a deal made when the Sino-Soviet treaty was signed last August. China agreed to give up Outer Mongolia in return for Soviet support for Chiang Kai-Shek's government against the Chinese Communists, and recognition of Chinese sovereignty over Manchuria.

The recognition marks the final accomplishment of a Russian aspiration in central Asia that has existed for half a century.

The Chinese ministry of interior sent a delegation from Chungking to supervise the plebiscite. The delegation returned to Chungking and reported that they had been so restricted in their movement by Mongolian officials that they could not ascertain whether the plebscite expressed the free will of the Mongolian people.

Delegates said they were confined mostly to the Mongolian capitol, Ulan Bator, formerly called Urga.

The Mongolians refused a suggestion by the Chungking authorities that they send a delegation to Chungking to report the plebscite results.

Russia stated that it had no intention of interfering in the conflict in Sinkiang, which it called China's internal affair. Sinkiang's western frontier adjoins the Soviet Union.

REPORTS STATE CHINESE WAR IS NEAR END

CHUNGKING, Jan. 5—The national government and the Communists have agreed on a procedure for ending hostilities in China's civil war and for restitution of communications, it was announced tonight.

Details of the suspension of hostilities and restoration of communications will be worked out immediately, K. C. Wu, minister of information, announced.

The unity conference delegated Chou En-Lai, Communist leader, and Chang Chun, governor of Szechwan, to meet and work out the detailed plan.

Wu said that Chou and Chang probably would issue the actual cease-fire order after conferring with Gen. George G. Marshall.

son was sent to Hawaii as a special representative for the late President Roosevelt. Stark said he didn't know.

The Zacharias memorandum claimed that he had warned Munson of the possibility of a surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on a Sunday or holiday. It also said that Zacharias had warned Kimmel of the possibility.

Attached to the exhibit was an endorsement signed by "Curtis B. Munson." It was dated July 10, 1942 and read:

"I have read the personal and confidential report of Captain E. M. Zacharias, U. S. N., as a memorandum for Admiral Diemel, dated March 17, 1942, and desire to state that the remarks relating to me and the outline given to me as indicated therein is exact and correct in detail.

"In addition he suggested that the attack would conform to their historical procedure, that of hitting before war was declared."

In telling of the Munson interview, Zacharias' memorandum said:

"After outlining to him my firm conviction that if Japan decided to go to war with us it would open by an air attack on Pearl Harbor, on a week end and probably Sunday morning, with all the reasons therefore, and I then stated, 'you now have two envoys in Washington. When the third one arrives you can look for it to break immediately one way or the other.' This envoy arrived in Washington about Dec. 1941."

It was brought out that the third envoy was the Japanese ambassador to Peru who visited Washington at about that time.

The Zacharias memorandum contained the following statement concerning his warnings to Kimmel:

"From time to time, in contact with the staff, I would voice possibilities (of attack), and only two months before the attack, amazed at unrealistic attitudes, I said, 'when are we going to stop these surprise inspections and prepare for surprise attack?'"

The memorandum also hinted of jealousies between Kimmel and Rear Adm. Claude C. Bloch, commander of the 14th naval district at Hawaii. Bloch was a former full admiral in command of the Pacific fleet.

Of that regard, the memorandum said:

"One of the contributing factors to 7 Dec. was the reluctance of Admiral Kimmel to assume his prerogatives and tell the commandant to carry out his directives or someone else would be obtained to do the job.

"The possibilities of an unpleasant situation would have been readily apparent to the department when the former commander in chief is put under a younger man. Petty jealousies are bound to be present and these grow into oppositions."

other operating personnel, and 343,000 men in training, in transit to theatres, or in a small strategic reserve.

The total Army strength after July 1 will be 1,550,000. That is approximately 400,000 under the figure estimated last September. This cut was achieved by slicing estimates in every theatre and at home.

Collins said regular Army enlistments would total about 400,000 as of January 1. He said it was hoped that enlistments will continue high, although they are slowing down somewhat. He said selective service has produced only an average of 37,000 men per month since V-J day against estimates of needs of 50,000.

Collins said virtually all 60 point men are home from Europe and 50 point men are now being shipped. By the end of January most men with 50 points will be sent home from the Pacific.

Under the Navy's new point schedule, the critical score for most male commissioned and warrant officers, set at 41 effective February 2, will be reduced to 40 on February 15 and to 39 on March 2.

Critical scores for WAVE officers, set at 28 for February 2 will be reduced to 27 on the March control date. Enlisted women's points, set at 22 on February 2, will be further reduced to 21 in March.

The Navy made some exceptions in the reduction of point scores for the release of naval aviators and some special categories of enlisted personnel. Point totals for aviators with the rank of ensign, for example, will remain at 20 during the entire period.

The meeting was called off at the last minute, however, because of the illness of Shidehara and because three of the members were unable to reach Tokyo in time.

Delivery of the directives started a spurt of activity among politicians and office holders, most of them seeking to hold onto their jobs or attempting to "get off the hook" with regard to their political past.

pute in which the United Auto Workers (CIO) stipulate that any wage increases must not result in a rise in prices, the steel and meat packing unions have not demanded that the government hold the price line.

Under the administration's stabilization policy, however, price increases are barred unless they are necessary to cover wage increases or to make up for increases in living costs.

The steel panel is expected to meet early next week with the union and the companies in a closed session. The meat panel has called a meeting in Chicago next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday between the union and the four big packing companies.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson already has said that because of the critical meat picture he would recommend an increase in meat prices rather than face the possibility of a general strike.

He made it clear, however, that he has not recommended such an increase.

Anderson said the nation cannot stand an interruption in its meat supply. His position is expected to determine whether or not the government will seize the industry if a strike does occur.

The steel panel also must decide whether it should ask further presidential authority to investigate the dispute.

Palestine, where emergency facilities were set up in a sanitarium.

Seven persons were hurt, one seriously, when the tornado dipped to earth five miles south of Decatur, 60 miles northwest of Dallas, and overturned three cars of a northbound Fort Worth and Denver City railroad train.

Considerable damage was reported in the area.

At Palestine, a newspaperman estimated that two thirds of the victims there were seriously hurt, that at least one was expected to die and that at least one person was missing.

James Wilkie, a 16-year-old Palestine high school boy, provided United Press with the first eyewitness account of the havoc at Southview, which he said was "wiped out."

Defense counsel for Homma, commander of Japanese forces in the Philippines in 1941-42, indicated in cross-examination of an earlier witness that Homma would blame the Japanese navy for the bombings.

He also said Homma's headquarters had communications with Tokyo via Formosa but service was so bad it sometimes took weeks to get a message through. He said there were no direct communications between army and navy headquarters.

Nope... you don't need a pilot's license to drive with X-70

... cars don't sprout wings and take to the air.

Sure, Standard Oil has made oceans of the "super octane" gasoline which gave fighters and bombers that war-winning edge. (As a matter of fact Standard Oil was the maker of EX-TANES, concentrated power ingredients used to improve gasolines for the Air Forces.)

But the down-to-earth fact is that such "hot stuff" was developed for aviation engines and your car's engine was never designed to handle it.

SOHIO X-70 IS FOR YOU! Years ago we pledged that Sohio X-70 would not be excelled at its price, and daily laboratory tests prove that pledge is still being fulfilled. For all-around performance in a CAR... on the ROAD... we repeat: you simply can't beat X-70 at regular price.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson already has said that because of the critical meat picture he would recommend an increase in meat prices rather than face the possibility of a general strike.

He made it clear, however, that he has not recommended such an increase.

Anderson said the nation cannot stand an interruption in its meat supply. His position is expected to determine whether or not the government will seize the industry if a strike does occur.

The steel panel also must decide whether it should ask further presidential authority to investigate the dispute.

LONG-TIME OBLIGATION

THE Veterans Administration looks forward to maintaining 300,000 beds for wounded and sick soldiers. A special brief course is being inaugurated for 5,000 experienced nurses this year and 4,500 more in 1947. The aim is to train the women in techniques of new treatments and medicines. There will be 30 three-month nursing scholarships, the graduates of which will conduct demonstration centers in various veterans' hospitals to coach other nurses, who will then be given rotating assignments of two years in each hospital.

In an effort to relieve pressure on veterans' hospitals an experiment is being tried in Michigan whereby incapacitated soldiers of that state may receive care by doctors and in hospitals of their choice in their own communities, all at government expense. Since federal law specifies that veterans suffering disabilities not traceable to military action, and who cannot afford private care, must be cared for in veterans hospitals, this group, numbering now about 60,000, greatly taxes the hospitals. If some of the war wounded can be cared for at home, this situation would be eased. Also, this would permit wounded men needing a long convalescence to have it under family physician at home. Gen. Omar Bradley, VA administrator, says if the Michigan plan succeeds it will be used elsewhere.

The VA has no program of early peacetime reduction. Its tasks and program will go on long after most people have forgotten there ever was a war.

AMERICAN CZARISM

NEWSPAPERS here and there are beginning, in a mild way, to get after James Caesar Petrillo, the music czar. He is the fellow who forbids the broadcasting of amateur music programs in schools and elsewhere, and gets away with it. Such restriction has never been known in the past, and is obviously illegitimate. He has extended his operations during the Christmas holidays, forbidding American radio stations to broadcast musical programs originating in foreign countries—except in Canada, where the musicians pay dues to him.

It is a strange thing for one of the fine arts to be handicapped in this arbitrary way by a labor union dominated by one man. The year 1946 should see the end of it.

"U. S. Writers Find Russian Zone is Red" says a headline. What a startling discovery!

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to an overcast morning and to learn of mounting temperature during the night. Released the chickens to forage for themselves, but soon relented and scattered feed. Remembered the daily take of eggs. Heeded for the cattle barns, there to find George scratching his head in great puzzlement. The day before one of his Jerseys had appeared with a fine heifer calf. Then in the evening the vet came, inspected the cow and declared that the calf was not hers, that she had had no calf. The other cattle were hurriedly inspected. None of them was the mother. The calf is a Jersey and fully accepted by the Jersey cow who, the vet declares, soon is to have a calf of her own. Got me to scratching my head, too. But could scratch out no ideas. Neither could George. Could it be that I was wrong in my disbelief of the stork tale?

Stopped at the post, there to meet Gus Schlar driving a fine new Packard. "Don't even know the price of it," Gus declared. "A heck of a business system this country has nowadays," he declared. My idea's the same, only I don't say "heck."

Noted kids streaming to school after the Christmas and epidemic vacation. Some glad, others nursing grudges prompted by the advance of medical science. Stopped to chat with Durward Dowden, the banker, who was much impressed by a presentation at Rotary of a color movie of Denver and vicinity. I can say that no picture can do justice to that country. It has to be visited to be appreciated. A great vacation land, but as I have said before about the West, anyone can have my share of it as a place of permanent residence.

See by the prints that city officials once more are all excited about the conduct of some drinking places in the city. Something is to be done about them, it seems. Something was to be done about them two years ago, also, it seemed. Much oratory in city council. A committee appointed to investigate, learn the procedure necessary to the revoking of licenses and report back to council. Of course that was only two years ago and maybe the committee has not completed its inquiry. Now, citizens are asked to come forth with complaints against the accused spots. And all the time most of us thought the responsibility rested on our officials. Apparently they have no responsibility other than to assign the entire police force to the vicinity of the hot spots for the purpose of breaking up fights and near riots. And while the cops are there the rest of the city is without any kind of police protection. So said members of the city council in regular session two years ago. And in the two years conditions have not changed any except for the worse. Anyone want to bet that the city officials can not correct the situation without a citizen acting as a front? Or that any licenses will be revoked?

It was late last Summer that a friend told me of learning a remarkable new method of canning tomatoes. Just place the tomatoes in a can of cold water, drop in an aspirin tablet and seal the jar. Simple. Tomatoes to come out firm and garden fresh. Only they didn't. Some jars exploded and in others the tomatoes just soured and turned to mush. And the friend is disappointed and I'm disillusioned. Ignore the aspirin canning method unless you seek an appropriate gift for a hated enemy next Christmas.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Mr. Byrnes avows the Christmas season peace he made at Moscow is an excellent compromise of difficult divergent views—a 50-50 settlement. He is prejudiced. He made the agreement.

To an objective analyst, the agreement resembles the rabbit stew prepared by Old Trader Joe out in the Dakotas and sold to the Indians. One day an Indian complained about the rabbit stew. He said:

"It tastes like horsemeat."
"Oh no," said Trader Joe in an injured tone. "It has good rabbit in it."
"But does it have any horsemeat?" asked the Indian.

"Only 50-50," conceded Joe.
"Whattayamean fifty-fifty?" shouted the Indian. "This is horsemeat."

"Well, if you want to know," confessed Joe, "I always use in each preparation—one rabbit and one horse."

For Japan, a nation we conquered and occupied alone, there is to be established a governing commission of the so-called United Nations, each with a veto power. We are to surrender our control to other nations, including Russia.

But for the nations Russia conquered and occupied alone, there are to be no governing commissions. We do not have a veto power in any, nor does any other nation.

In Romania and Bulgaria, both enemy nations now in Russian hands, Mr. Stalin pronounced himself in favor of matters as they now stand, says our state secretary. But Mr. Byrnes thinks he won something he considers as "concessions" by Russia in Bulgaria and Romania. As regards Bulgaria, the agreement says:

"The Soviet government takes upon itself the responsibility of giving friendly advice to the Bulgarian government."

There it will insist upon some additional leaders who "are really suitable" (?) and who will "work loyally" (1).

As soon as Stalin finds men who are really suitable and who will work loyally, then the United States and Great Britain will recognize that government—but Mr. Byrnes says Stalin is already satisfied.

The rabbit is somewhat larger for Romania. "Free and unfettered elections" are advised there, "as soon as possible," and the reorganized government "should"—mark you, need not,—"should give assurances concerning the grant of freedom of the press, speech, religion and association"—none of which basic Atlantic Charter freedoms are mentioned for Bulgaria.

Mr. Stalin will let a three-nation committee in to see things, and allow one representative of two parties get into the government somewhere.

These are the hares of Mr. Byrnes' stew, the "concessions" he won for our way of life. Even the remaining horsemeat is doubtful and vague.

Korea we split with Russia 50-50. China, we will withdraw from, leaving Chiang to survive Communist revolution if he can.

The conquest of northern Iran by Russia is not mentioned, nor is Yugoslavia, (Continued on Page Six)

A Painful Nerve Disorder Causing Blisters on the Skin

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SHINGLES or herpes zoster is a painful disorder, but not a serious one. In fact, the worst part about the disease is the severe pain and inconvenience which it produces. Just what causes it we do not know, but it is probable that shingles is due to an infection of the nerves with a virus.

In this condition, there is a skin rash which is made up of blisters along the course of the affected nerve. The disorder occurs most often in older persons, but may develop in children. There would appear to be some relation between the virus which produces this disorder and that which is responsible for chicken pox.

Many treatments for shingles have been employed and new ones are being suggested right along but nothing specific has yet been found. Certain pain-relieving drugs have been taken by mouth to lessen the discomfort. Various ointments have been applied to the rash.

Sometimes covering the rash with paraffin or putting layers of cotton over it has been found to give some relief.

Doctors Thomas Findley and Reynold Patzer of New Orleans have developed a new treatment for shingles which they believe is not as well known as it should be. It provides almost instantaneous and complete relief from pain.

This method consists in injecting into the "proper" area a substance known as procaine hydrochloride, which is a local anesthetic and is not difficult, and practically without danger, if used by one who is familiar with the anatomy.

Pain Stopped

The injections are given into the area around what are known as sympathetic ganglia. These are collections of nerve tissue which are located near the spine. Not only does the treatment eliminate the pain but seems also to speed up healing of the blisters. Insofar as is known, the treatment has not been used in cases of shingles or herpes zoster which have affected the face. It has been employed only in those instances in which the areas of the chest, abdomen and back are affected.

In the four cases of herpes zoster treated by Doctors Findley and Patzer with procaine hydrochloride the relief from pain was immediate and permanent and the rash healed up rapidly. Just exactly how the treatment produces its good results does not seem to be known, but it would appear that it tends to get rid of spasm of the blood vessels which is possible is responsible for the pain and other symptoms.

Of course, the treatment can be carried out only by one who is experienced in giving the injections, but it would appear to be invaluable in severe cases of shingles.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

WHILE astral conditions, with the genuine support or endorsement of influential persons in public place, in diplomatic, political, fraternal or community organizations, combine to give lively interest in large propositions, labors, unique or exceptional talents or plans, yet an undermining condition menaces the home, social and romantic life as well as finances, prestige and peace of mind.

An emotional, erratic, illusory or subtle psychology seems to incite to unaccountable behaviorism leading to loss and sorrow. A phase of demoralization or irresponsibility should be dispelled with firmness and precision.

Those whose birthday it is may have a set of circumstances, luring them to important labors, plans, propositions or projects in which public, community, political or fraternal bodies are concerned, yet a glamorous, bewildered or chaotic course of action, if indulged, might precipitate loss of standing, reputation, opportunity, finances and position as well.

This unaccountable or psychological situation, affecting the emotions and conduct, should be firmly and promptly taken in hand at the start, lest erratic or peculiar impulses negate sound judgment and high purpose. Beware strangers and intriguing attachments.

A child born on this day may possess spectacular creative ability with much promise, yet its strange or erratic conduct may defeat ability!

CHAPTER TWENTY

IT WAS mid-afternoon. Tuck, Froody and Guffery, the head of the homicide squad, were gathered around the polished expanse of Guffery's large flat desk. From the street outside the proud white building traffic noises came to them faintly. It was the time of day when the office workers in the building knocked off for a coke, a cup of coffee, or to buy an apple or a candy bar from the old lady who had for years had a stand in the echoing mouth of the Main street entrance. The three men looked tired, but absorbed. When Tuck finished speaking, Guffery put both hands on the sides of his round, balding head, rocked it gently from one side to the other. Then he swung his round body suddenly and dangerously back in his swivel chair. Lying back so, he rubbed the round spot in the center of the circling tangle of graying hair like a man rubbing an ache. "It is the damdest case I've ever heard of," he announced. "It's like a storybook murder."

"It is," said Tuck. "However you look at it, the basic pattern remains the same. A woman writes a book in which the central character poisons her husband; the woman's husband is then killed with the same poison."

"Things don't happen that way," said Froody, almost petulantly.

"Once in a million times they do," corrected Tuck. "It would seem that we are face to face with the once in a million time. Let's accept that and go once more over the facts we have. To begin with, we know this: Hime was killed either by his wife or by one of the three people who visited his wife on the afternoon of the day he died. There is no apparent motive for any of these four people to have killed him, so for the present we'll consider opportunity instead of motive. The opportunity can be boiled down to this: Miss Hastings, Mrs. Saxe, Captain Harris and Mrs. Hime herself all had the opportunity to place the poison which killed Hime in the sugar bowl. The bowl was filled by the servant Hazel the night before, after dinner. It was not again used until four in the afternoon, when Miss Hastings and Mrs. Hime had tea together. Neither of them used sugar in their tea, according to Mrs. Hime. The bowl was then returned to its usual place on the sideboard by the friend Mrs. Saxe, where it remained until Mrs. Hime herself set it on the dinner table, which was at about seven, just before her first husband paid his unexpected call. There it remained until Mrs. Hime and her husband cleared the dinner table, at which time she returned it to the sideboard where I found it the next morning."

"Now, after Mrs. Hime had some what recovered from the shock of learning that there was no ant poison in the kitchen canister, I went over all the events of the day before in minute detail. I have a notebook full of minute details. She hasn't been eating, she was knocked out, she sat on the sofa in the living room smoking cigarettes, she walked up and down the room. She seemed to want to talk. I know every moment of that rather full Thursday afternoon. I could not help noticing that each of those three visitors had the physical opportunity to put poison into the sugar unknown to Mrs. Hime. She was called away to the telephone during Miss Hastings' visit and remained there talking long enough for the act of poisoning the sugar to have been committed. And Mrs. Saxe was left alone for about ten minutes while Mrs. Hime changed her dress, and the first husband, Harris, was alone in the house for a possible half hour while Mrs. Hime was driving her husband home."

"One of those three visitors, for an unknown reason, put poison in the sugar bowl, that person had poison with him when he entered the house. The reason is clear. Not Mrs. Hastings nor Harris had been there before and could not possibly have known of the box of poison in Mrs. Hime's den."

"Mrs. Saxe could have known," said Guffery.

"There seems a chance of that, yes. But she could not have got at it without attracting the attention of Mrs. Hime, who was dressing in the bedroom which opens directly off her den, where the poison was. Now, granting that one of those three persons entered the house armed with poison with which to commit murder, there are three alternatives. This person intended to kill Mr. Hime, Mrs. Hime or both of them."

"And here's where the whole thing becomes illogical. Let's take each of these three people one by one. Miss Hastings did not apparently know of Mrs. Hime's diet. Therefore, if she had poisoned the sugar, she must have wished to kill both Mrs. and Mr. Hime. Would she want to kill the producer through whom she hoped to get a fat part? It seems to me impossible to consider for even a moment."

"Bernice Saxe. She knew Mrs. Hime was not using sugar. If she put poison in the sugar bowl, she intended to kill Albert Hime. She went to that house with poison in her purse to kill her best friend's husband. There is not the slightest inkling of any possible motive."

"Captain Harris. Even more impossible. When he went to Mrs. Hime's he did not know she had a husband! Therefore, to qualify as the murderer, he must have gone there armed with poison with which he meant to kill Mrs. Hime. But he learned she was not using sugar. So would he have then poisoned the sugar in the bowl?"

"Are you sure Harris and this Mrs. Saxe knew Mrs. Hime was not using sugar? I mean, she may have mentioned it in passing, but they may not have been listening." Gufferty said.

"I checked that point carefully with Mrs. Hime. They knew Mrs. Saxe herself brought up the matter of the diet. Mr. Harris mixed some old-fashioned. Mrs. Hime asked him to leave sugar out of her, and told him that she was watching her weight. The next drink he brought her was without any sugar; he had heard, all right."

"I said there were four people who had an opportunity to put poison in the sugar. There was really five, the servant Hazel having had an opportunity to do so the night before when she filled the sugar bowl. And Hazel also knew Mrs. Hime was not using sugar. Letting aside the glaring lack of any motive, does it seem likely that she would have chosen to murder Mr. Hime by a method which put so many lives in danger? It was just chance that the sugar bowl was not used during the day, before Mr. Hime took that fatal sugar. And furthermore, would she choose a method which could be traced so directly to her?"

"It seems to me," said Guffery, "that you've sealed, signed and delivered a case against Mrs. Hime."

Tuck sighed heavily. "Now we'll look at that. Again we have to assume some strong motive, of which there is absolutely no indication. For some reason, then, Mrs. Hime desired to get rid of her husband . . ."

"Insurance?" suggested Guffery suddenly.

"Out. Mrs. Hime made about three times as much money as her husband did. He carried no life insurance policy for this reason."

"Just wanted to get it straight," said Guffery.

"For some reason Mrs. Hime wanted to get rid of her husband . . ."

"Maybe something about this Hastings dame? Jealousy?" Guffery said.

"Maybe. So Mrs. Hime carefully chooses the same poison she had a character in her last book use in killing her husband. She leaves roughly a pound of this poison in her closet. She puts the poison in a sugar bowl which will be used by Hime at a dinner where only she was present. She then takes a sleeping pill, sleeps for about eight hours, awakes in the morning, finds him dead, calls the doctor. She explains, according to a talk I had with him by phone, all the usual signs of shock. But even granting that these were faked, and that the woman is a hard-boiled murderer, would she have been likely to commit this murder in that way?"

"Murder in passion," said Guffery. "Maybe there was a sudden flare-up—she's raging. Before she thinks about the consequences, she's gone and done the thing the way her own character did it."

"Except that poison does not go with a murder committed in passion; it takes some sort of plan to use poison. It takes coldness, and cruelty, and scheming."

OTHER FACTORS COUNT

SHOWING your partner the general strength of your hand and the exact distribution of its bid-dable suits are only two of the considerations in fine bidding. There can be other ones, too, and in some situations they gain as much importance as the two stated. First, there can be the desirability of avoiding crowding of the bidding which may shut off exchange of information. Secondly, there can sometimes be a point in preserving the initiative on your side of the table, or in passing it across to your partner.

The No. 1 sequence shows the way the bidding began on this deal at most tables of a big duplicate, with South rebidding his hearts before showing his spades, in order to make sure that he had six hearts and only four spades. But notice the spot South got into after his second heart bid. After North took that to either 3-No Trumps or 4-Hearts, South still had not shown his spades. He would have to do it at the range of four, five or six.

At this particular table, when he did it at 5-Spades, and North bid 6-Spades, he thought North might have believed the 5-Spades was to cue-bid the ace and that the 6-Spades showed second-round control because North had a singleton. So he went to the grand slam in hearts. That contract was impossible because a diamond had to be lost.

Where South looked ahead, as in the second sequence, and bid the spades on his second round, North knew that was a biddable suit. When he then showed his 4 at 4-Spades, South knew North had four of the suit, so confidently went to the grand slam in it. The club A lead was ruffed, and slam was easy, with the losing diamond later parked on the spade J.

LONG-TIME OBLIGATION

THE Veterans Administration looks forward to maintaining 300,000 beds for wounded and sick soldiers. A special brief course is being inaugurated for 5,000 experienced nurses this year and 4,500 more in 1947. The aim is to train the women in techniques of new treatments and medicines. There will be 30 three-month nursing scholarships, the graduates of which will conduct demonstration centers in various veterans' hospitals to coach other nurses, who will then be given rotating assignments of two years in each hospital.
In an effort to relieve pressure on veterans' hospitals an experiment is being tried in Michigan whereby incapacitated soldiers of that state may receive care by doctors and in hospitals of their choice in their own communities, all at government expense. Since federal law specifies that veterans suffering disabilities not traceable to military action, and who cannot afford private care, must be cared for in veterans hospitals, this group, numbering now about 60,000, greatly taxes the hospitals. If some of the war wounded can be cared for at home, this situation would be eased. Also, this would permit wounded men needing a long convalescence to have it under family physician at home. Gen. Omar Bradley, VA administrator, says if the Michigan plan succeeds it will be used elsewhere.
The VA has no program of early peacetime reduction. Its tasks and program will go on long after most people have forgotten there ever was a war.

AMERICAN CZARISM

NEWSPAPERS here and there are beginning, in a mild way, to get after James Caesar Petrillo, the music czar. He is the fellow who forbids the broadcasting of amateur music programs in schools and elsewhere, and gets away with it. Such restriction has never been known in the past, and is obviously illegitimate. He has extended his operations during the Christmas holidays, forbidding American radio stations to broadcast musical programs originating in foreign countries—except in Canada, where the musicians pay dues to him.
It is a strange thing for one of the fine arts to be handicapped in this arbitrary way by a labor union dominated by one man. The year 1946 should see the end of it.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Mr. Byrnes avows the Christmas season peace he made at Moscow is an excellent compromise of difficult divergent views—a 50-50 settlement. He is prejudiced. He made the agreement.

To an objective analyst, the agreement resembles the rabbit stew prepared by Old Trader Joe out in the Dakotas and sold to the Indians. One day an Indian complained about the rabbit stew. He said: "It tastes like horsemeat."
"Oh no," said Trader Joe in an injured tone. "It has good rabbit in it."
"But does it have any horsemeat?" asked the Indian.
"Only 50-50," conceded Joe.
"Whattayamean fifty-fifty?" shouted the Indian. "This is horsemeat."
"Well, if you want to know," confessed Joe, "I always use in each preparation—one rabbit and one horse."
For Japan, a nation we conquered and occupied alone, there is to be established a governing commission of the so-called United Nations, each with a veto power. We are to surrender our control to other nations, including Russia.

But for the nations Russia conquered and occupied alone, there are to be no governing commissions. We do not have a veto power in any, nor does any other nation.
In Romania and Bulgaria, both enemy nations now in Russian hands, Mr. Stalin pronounced himself in favor of matters as they now stand, says our state secretary. But Mr. Byrnes thinks he won something he considers as "concessions" by Russia in Bulgaria and Romania. As regards Bulgaria, the agreement says:
"The Soviet government takes upon itself the responsibility of giving friendly advice to the Bulgarian government."
There it will insist upon some additional leaders who "are really suitable" (?) and who will "work loyally" (1).
As soon as Stalin finds men who are really suitable and who will work loyally, then the United States and Great Britain will recognize that government—but Mr. Byrnes says Stalin is already satisfied.

The rabbit is somewhat larger for Romania. "Free and unfettered elections" are advised there, "as soon as possible," and the reorganized government "should"—mark you, need not,—but "should give assurances concerning the grant of freedom of the press, speech, religion and association"—none of which basic Atlantic Charter freedoms are mentioned for Bulgaria.
Mr. Stalin will let a three-nation committee in to see things, and allow one representative of two parties get into the government somewhere.
These are the hares of Mr. Byrnes' stew, the "concessions" he won for our way of life. Even the remaining horsemeat is doubtful and vague.
Korea we split with Russia 50-50. China, we will withdraw from, leaving Chiang to survive Communist revolution if he can. The conquest of northern Iran by Russia is not mentioned, nor is Yugoslavia. (Continued on Page Six)

A Painful Nerve Disorder Causing Blisters on the Skin

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
SHINGLES or herpes zoster is a painful disorder, but not a serious one. In fact, the worst part about the disease is the severe pain and inconvenience which it produces. Just what causes it we do not know, but it is probable that shingles is due to an infection of the nerves with a virus.
In this condition, there is a skin rash which is made up of blisters along the course of the affected nerve. The disorder occurs most often in older persons, but may develop in children. There would appear to be some relation between the virus which produces this disorder and that which is responsible for chicken pox.
Many Treatments
Many forms of treatment for shingles have been employed and new ones are being suggested right along but nothing specific has as yet been found. Certain pain-relieving drugs have been taken but with little or no relief. Various ointments have been applied to the rash.
Sometimes covering the rash with paraffin or putting layers of cotton over it has been found to give some relief.
Doctors Thomas Findley and Reynold Patzer of New Orleans have developed a new treatment for shingles which they believe is not as well known as it should be. It provides almost instantaneous and complete relief from pain.
This method consists in injecting into the "proper" area a substance known as procaine hydrochloride, which is a local anesthetic and is not difficult, and practically without danger, if used by one who is familiar with the anatomy.
Pain Stopped
The injections are given into the area around what are known as sympathetic ganglia. These are collections of nerve tissue which are located near the spine. Not only does the treatment eliminate the pain but seems also to speed up healing of the blisters. Insofar as is known, the treatment has not been used in cases of shingles or herpes zoster which have affected the face. It has been employed only in those instances in which the areas of the chest, abdomen and back are affected.
In the four cases of herpes zoster treated by Doctors Findley and Patzer with procaine hydrochloride the relief from pain was immediate and permanent and the rash healed up rapidly. Just exactly how the treatment produces its good results does not seem to be known, but it would appear that it tends to get rid of spasm of the blood vessels which possibly is responsible for the pain and other symptoms.
Of course, the treatment can be carried out only by one who is experienced in giving the injections, but it would appear to be invaluable in severe cases of shingles.

OTHER FACTORS COUNT
SHOWING your partner the general strength of your hand and the exact distribution of its biddable suits are only two of the considerations in the bidding. There can be other ones, too, and in some situations they gain as much importance as the two stated. First, there can be the desirability of avoiding crowding of the bidding which may shut off the effective and economical exchange of information. Secondly, there can sometimes be a point in preserving the initiative on your side of the table, or in passing it across to your partner.

The No. 1 sequence shows the way the bidding began on this deal at most tables of a big duplicate, with South rebidding his hearts before showing his spades, in order to make sure North knew he had six hearts and only four spades. But notice the spot South got into after his second heart bid. After North took the either 3-No Trumps or 4-Hearts, South still had to do it at the range of four, five or six.
At this particular table, when he did it at 5-Spades, and North then bid 6-Spades, he thought North might have believed the 5-Spades was to cue-bid the ace and that the 6-Spades showed second-round control because North had a singleton. So he went to the grand slam in hearts. That contract was impossible because a diamond had to be lost.
Where South looked ahead, as in the second sequence, and bid the spades on his second round, North knew that was a hideable suit. When he then showed his fit at 4-Spades, South knew North had four of the suit, so confidently went to the grand slam in it. The club A lead was ruffed, and slam was easy, with the losing diamond later perked on the spade J.

EVANGELISTIC CRUSADE STARTS AT U. B. CHURCH

Sunday, January 6, the First United Brethren church will launch an "Evangelistic Crusade," which will continue through Sunday, March 3. In announcing this crusade, which will be directed by the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, he says, "Our program of evangelism is continuous and our church is always anxious to lead persons to know Jesus Christ, the Son of God, as a personal Saviour and to see a public expression of such a decision through uniting with the church. But in these chaotic days, we dare not trust to a casual evangelistic emphasis. Our day calls for a concentrated and conscientious approach, thus we are conducting this Evangelistic Crusade for a sixty day period with the thought of spiritually strengthening the individual, the church, the homes and the community. To realize our ideals, we will use the resources of educational, home visitation and invitation and mass evangelistic efforts."

The educational evangelistic plan includes a church-wide distribution of "A Scriptural Program for a Successful Evangelistic Campaign in the Local Church." Other means of approach will be the every Wednesday night study class at the church in personal soul-winning, an every Monday night Family Prayer Meeting in each home, a congregational wide reading course of books, tracts, pamphlets and other materials with an evangelistic appeal, a series of Retreats for the church from February 5 to February 7 with former and visiting pastors delivering sermons of a revival, an Evangelistic Clinic, Friday night, February 8, with Conference Superintendent, Dr. C. M. Bowman, in charge and regular Sunday morning and evening sermons by the pastor on the general theme: "Christ Calls the Church to Effective Training for Christian Evangelism."

The dates of February 10 to February 16 have been designated as Home Visitation and Invitation Week, when individuals and teams will call in homes of the community in the interest of the church and the revival. Each night during this week half-hour group prayer meetings will be held in homes from 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock.

The mass evangelistic program calls for the revival meeting to begin at the church, Sunday, February 17, and continue through Sunday, March 3, with services each night at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Carl L. Wilson will be the pastor-evangelist and will be assisted by Miss Louella Martin, Westerville, Ohio. Miss Martin is an accomplished musician and will direct the congregational singing, offer special vocal and instrumental numbers each night as well as directing the youth and children's work.

The initial service of the Crusade will be Sunday morning with the pastor and congregation celebrating the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. A class will be received into church membership and the rite of baptism by sprinkling will be administered.

PASTOR URGES MORE EMPHASIS ON RELIGION

The Rev. Carl L. Kennedy has started the new year of 1946 with an appeal through a letter to every member of the Presbyterian church. In it he urges all to go to church every Sunday. Here is what he says:

"Dear Friends:

"If we should say it to you, you could ignore it. You expect your minister to say it to you, and when he does, it is easy to forget because sometimes you think that is his professional duty. Even if all of your friends should say it to you, you could pass it off lightly. But when on one of the greatest historical events in the ages of man, the Japanese Surrender, the Commanding General, Douglas MacArthur, thought that it was important enough to bring to the attention of the world the part that is and must be played by the Church, then it behooves us to listen carefully and heed his timely warning.

"Military alliances, balances of power, League of Nations, all in turn failed. We have had our last chance. If we do not devise some greater and more equitable system, Armageddon will be at our door. The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual resurgence and improvement of human character that will synchronize with our almost matchless advance in science, art, literature, and all material and cultural developments of the past two thousand years. It must be of the spirit if we are to save the flesh."

"In this he is saying what the Church has been teaching through the long history of Christianity. Now that the war is over, it is possible and probable, that there will be a letdown in worship and Church attendance. This must not be, or we shall live to see what has happened, happen again with the added horrors of the atomic bomb.

"Your Church is doing its best to give to the community the spiritual guidance that is needed to keep our part of the world from lapsing back again into the lackadaisical attitude that was the root and cause of World War II.

"You will not always like the minister's sermon or the music of the choir, and there may be other things that you do not like, but it is your Church and those whom you have chosen to lead you in spiritual things are human, but they are doing their best. You can help by continuous cooperation, regular attendance, friendly suggestions, earnest prayer, and a desire to serve rather than to be served.

"We must learn to worship or perish. Go to Church every Sunday if possible. If you are away from your own church, go to another Church. But, by all means, worship somewhere. To neglect regular worship is to neglect life's greatest stabilizer. The life of the Church depends upon the regular attendance of its members. No community will long remain a decent place in which to live after the Church in that community has ceased to function. If we fail to attend the services of our Church, the Church will soon have to close its doors.

"Sunday, January 6, at ten-thirty a. m., Holy Communion will be celebrated in your church. Begin the New Year by attending this Communion Service, re-dedicate yourself to God, and support Jesus Christ and His Church: Your Church!

'NEW PATHS' IS CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN THEME

"New Paths" will be the theme of the Sunday evening message at the Church of the Brethren. In the morning service the pastor will speak on the subject, "The Herald of the King." This will be one of a series of messages from the Gospel of Matthew.

A shipment of food, clothing and blankets for European relief was sent this week to New Windsor, Md., where it will be sent overseas. The packing and shipping center at New Windsor was first begun as a center for the Brethren Service Committee of the Church of the Brethren and later became a receiving center for relief for all denominations. Persons who want their contributions to go to Europe through the direction of the churches may ship their supplies direct to Brethren Service Center, New Windsor, Md., or contact the pastor of the local Church of the Brethren at 1115 South Pickaway street, in Circleville.

The Loyal Daughters Sunday School Class of the First United Brethren Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Lorin Valentine, 410 East Mound Street, Tuesday 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Porter Martin, Mrs. Clarence Valentine and Mrs. John Kerns will be assistant hostesses.

EVANGELISTIC CRUSADE STARTS AT U. B. CHURCH

Sunday, January 6, the First United Brethren church will launch an "Evangelistic Crusade," which will continue through Sunday, March 3. In announcing this crusade, which will be directed by the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, he says, "Our program of evangelism is continuous and our church is always anxious to lead persons to know Jesus Christ, the Son of God, as a personal Saviour and to see a public expression of such a decision through uniting with the church. But in these chaotic days, we dare not trust to a casual evangelistic emphasis. Our day calls for a concentrated and conscientious evangelistic approach, thus we are conducting this Evangelistic Crusade for a sixty day period with the thought of spiritually strengthening the individual, the church, the homes and the community. To realize our ideals, we will use the resources of educational, home visitation and invitation and mass evangelistic efforts."

The educational evangelistic plan includes a church-wide distribution of "A Scriptural Program for a Successful Evangelistic Campaign in the Local Church." Other means of approach will be the every Wednesday night study class at the church in personal soul-winning, an every Monday night Family Prayer Meeting in each home, a congregational - wide reading course of books, tracts, pamphlets and other materials with an evangelistic appeal, a series of Retreats for the church from February 5 to February 7 with former and visiting pastors delivering sermons of some scriptural fundamentals of a revival, an Evangelistic Clinic, Friday night, February 8, with Conference Superintendent, Dr. C. M. Bowman, in charge and regular Sunday morning and evening sermons by the pastor on the general theme: "Christ Calls the Church to Effective Training for Christian Evangelism."

The dates of February 10 to February 16 have been designated as Home Visitation and Invitation Week, when individuals and teams will call in homes of the community in the interest of the church and the revival. Each night during this week half-hour group prayer meetings will be held in homes from 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock.

The mass evangelistic program calls for the revival meeting to begin at the church, Sunday, February 17, and continue through Sunday, March 3, with services each night at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Carl L. Wilson will be the pastor-evangelist and will be assisted by Miss Louella Martin, Westerville, Ohio. Miss Martin is an accomplished musician and will direct the congregational singing, offer special vocal and instrumental numbers each night as well as directing the youth and children's work.

The initial service of the Crusade will be Sunday morning with the pastor and congregation celebrating the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. A class will be received into church membership and the rite of baptism by sprinkling will be administered.

PASTOR URGES MORE EMPHASIS ON RELIGION

The Rev. Carl L. Kennedy has started the new year of 1946 with an appeal through a letter to every member of the Presbyterian church. In it he urges all to go to church every Sunday. Here is what he says:

"Dear Friends: "If we should say it to you, you could ignore it. You expect your minister to say it to you, and when he does, it is easy to forget because sometimes you think that it is his professional duty. Even if all of your friends should say it to you, you could pass it off lightly. But when on one of the greatest historical events in the ages of man, the Japanese Surrender, the Commanding General, Douglas MacArthur, thought that it was important enough to bring to the attention of the world the part that is and must be played by the Church, then it behooves us to listen carefully and heed his timely warning."

"Military alliance, balances of power, League of Nations, all in turn failed. We have had our last chance. If we do not devise some greater and more equitable system, Armageddon will be at our door. The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual resurgence and improvement of human character that will synchronize with our almost matchless advance in science, art, literature, and all material and cultural developments of the past two thousand years. It must be of the spirit if we are to save the flesh."

"In this he is saying what the Church has been teaching through the long history of Christianity. Now that the war is over, it is possible and probable, that there will be a letdown in worship and Church attendance. This must not be, or we shall live to see what has happened, happen again with the added horrors of the atomic bomb."

"Your Church is doing its best to give to the community the spiritual guidance that is needed to keep our part of the world from lapsing back again into the lackadaisical attitude that was the root and cause of World War II."

"You will not always like the minister's sermon or the music of the choir, and there may be other things that you do not like, but it is your Church and those whom you have chosen to lead you in spiritual things are human, but they are doing their best. You can help by continuous cooperation, regular attendance, friendly suggestions, earnest prayer, and a desire to serve rather than to be served."

"We must learn to worship or perish. Go to Church every Sunday if possible. If you are away from your own church, go to another Church. But, by all means, worship somewhere. To neglect regular worship is to neglect life's greatest stabilizer. The life of the Church depends upon the regular attendance of its members. No community will long remain a decent place in which to live after the Church in that community has ceased to function. If we fail to attend the services of our Church, the Church will soon have to close its doors."

"Sunday, January 6, at ten-thirty a. m. Holy Communion will be celebrated in your church. Begin the New Year by attending this Communion Service, re-dedicate yourself to God, and support Jesus Christ and His Church: Your Church!"

'NEW PATHS' IS CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN THEME

"New Paths" will be the theme of the Sunday evening message at the Church of the Brethren. In the morning service the pastor will speak on the subject, "The Herald of the King." This will be one of a series of messages from the Gospel of Matthew.

A shipment of food, clothing and blankets for European relief was sent this week to New Windsor, Md., where it will be sent overseas. The packing and shipping center at New Windsor was first begun as a center for the Brethren Service Committee of the Church of the Brethren and later became a receiving center for relief for all denominations. Persons who want their contributions to go to Europe through the direction of the churches may ship their supplies direct to Brethren Service Center, New Windsor, Md., or contact the pastor of the local Church of the Brethren at 1115 South Pickaway street, in Circleville.

The Loyal Daughters Sunday School Class of the First United Brethren Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Lorin Valentine, 410 East Mound Street, Tuesday 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Porter Martin, Mrs. Clarence Valentine and Mrs. John Kerns will be assistant hostesses.

Excerpt from Teachings of the Baha'i Faith

"Search after truth, the oneness of mankind, unity of religions, of races, of nations, of East and West, the reconciliation of religion and science, the eradication of prejudices and superstitions, the equality of men and women, the establishment of justice and righteousness, the setting up of a supreme international tribunal, the unification of languages, the compulsory diffusion of knowledge—these, and many other teachings like these, were revealed by the pen of Baha'u'llah seventy years ago, in innumerable books and epistles several of which were addressed to the kings and rulers of the world."

already under Russian controls. Mr. Byrnes says General MacArthur will have a free hand in Japan, but the agreement says otherwise. To the United Nations commission is specifically entrusted all matters of "policies, principles and standards" which seems to cover everything.

While Russia has but one vote (and Britain six against our two on the commission), any nation can veto any MacArthur act in practical effect, by demanding a "review."

Mr. Byrnes forgot to mention that we can act in emergencies "only following consultation and the attainment of agreement" in the commission, even as to "fundamental changes in the regime of control."

As for the atomic bomb, Mr. Byrnes says we are to give away no secret, but the agreement says the United Nations commission which is to have charge is to proceed "with the utmost dispatch" to "exchange basic scientific information" between all nations, and even provide methods of inspection inside nations to protect against violation in the use of the bomb.

A seat for Russia is specifically provided on that commission, and the commission is to be set up by the assembly of the United Nations meetings in London January 7.

The wording of the agreement, therefore, naturally suggests Russia would have to get "basic scientific information" within a few weeks or a few months at most and a few days at least, if every one acts "with utmost dispatch" and inspect our bomb plants.

The Byrnes recipe for peace thus certainly includes:

The hair of one hare.

The tail of another.

One horse (with a secret ingredient of bear, Russian bear).

Absolutely no caviar or champagne.

Army Units Aid Housing
PORTALES, N. M. (U.P.)—Solution of the student housing problem at Eastern New Mexico College at Portales was announced when school officials disclosed they had obtained 100 housing units from the Fort Sumner Airport, recently inactivated by the Army.

A modern blast furnace produces as much pig iron in 24 hours as all of the North American colonies produced in a year during the 18th century.

DUROCHER CHARGES TO BE DECIDED NEXT MONTH

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Whether Brooklyn Dodger Manager Leo Durocher and Ebbets field special patrolman Joseph Moore assaulted and seriously injured a fan who allegedly abused them will be decided next month when they are brought to trial, it was disclosed today.

The case will be handled by the district attorney's office by the Kings county (Brooklyn) court. District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said both men were charged with second degree assault under an indictment in the case of John H. Christian, 22-year-old ex-service veteran, who claims Durocher and Moore beat him up, causing him to be hospitalized.

Goes to A-A

STEVE JUZWIK, Notre Dame grid star in 1941-42, and on the reserve list of Washington Redskins players in the armed forces, has jumped to the rival All-America league. He has signed a contract to play for Buffalo in the new loop. Juzwik starred with Fleet City this year. (International)

CAGE SCORES

Beginning the second day of its three-day Winter meeting, the A. A. C. announced it would begin operations next Fall with an eight-team loop which will put clubs in only three National League towns.

But more important, the team owners announced their intentions of playing most of the games on Friday nights and other week nights, instead of the traditional Sunday days where the N. F. L. has rolled up its record attendance.

The new league apparently plans to duck another showdown with the N. F. L. by not holding a player draft of college seniors. All-America spokesmen said they have approximately 300 players under contract which, under their pool arrangement, will average out to about 35 players per club.

Commissioner James H. (Sleepy) Jim Crowley announced yesterday the A. A. C. would open play next Fall with each club playing a home-and-home series of 14 games with every other club. The franchise owners voted the league's ninth franchise, Baltimore, inactive for the 1946 season in order to open with an even number of teams in New York, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Miami.

BEAU JACK SCORES KO IN WELTERWEIGHT DEBUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ex-lightweight champion Beau Jack successfully launched his career as a welterweight last night by knocking out Morris Reif, Brooklyn slugger, in the fourth round with a smashing right hook to the solar plexus before 14,781 fans in the year's first fight at Madison Square Garden.

At the same time, the bull-shoed Negro from Augusta, Ga., auspiciously opened his 1946 campaign to recapture "golden boy" honors at the Garden by attracting a gate of $73,280.

Beau, scaling 143 1/2 pounds, floored his heavier opponent in the first round and put him away at 2:01 of the fourth. Reif, 146 1/2, took Referee Arthur Donovan's full count on his knees after Beau started him toward the canvas with his right smash to the stomach, following by a grazing left to the head that hastened his descent.

Morris was through for the night when Beau's right hook exploded in his midriff.

Monroe, Williamsport, Scioto Win County Loop Games By Large Scores

Big scores were the fashion Friday night as the Pickaway county basketball league swung back into action after a month's layoff.

Monroe rolled up a 55-21 score on Washington; Williamsport took Walnut 51-28 and Scioto downed Pickaway 43-22.

High point man of the evening was Bill Dechert of Scioto. He scored one point less than the entire Pickaway team, collecting 9 baskets and 3 foul conversions. He had 11-point assistance from Rush as Scioto led all the way, being on top 18-3 at the half.

Pickaway reserves won 32-9. Williamsport led all the way at Walnut. The first quarter ended 17-9, the half 13-20 and the third period 41-26.

Schleich took scoring honors with 16 with Henson contributing 11. R. Bumgarner was high for Walnut with 8.

Walnut reserves won 32-14. Smith counted 17 points as Monroe romped over Washington. Monroe led all the way, the first quarter ending 11-1, the half 21-9 and the third period 31-15. Ankrom helped Smith with 12 points. Leist and Kraft had 6 each for the losers.

already under Russian controls.

Mr. Byrnes says General MacArthur will have a free hand in Japan, but the agreement says otherwise. To the United Nations commission is specifically entrusted all matters of "policies, principles and standards" which seems to cover everything.

While Russia has but one vote (and Britain six against our two on the commission), any nation can veto any MacArthur act in practical effect, by demanding a "review."

Mr. Byrnes forgot to mention that we can act in emergencies "only following consultation and the attainment of agreement" in the commission, even as to "fundamental changes in the regime of control."

As for the atomic bomb, Mr. Byrnes says we are to give away no secret, but the agreement says the United Nations commission which is to have charge is to proceed "with the utmost dispatch" to "exchange basic scientific information" between all nations, and even provide methods of inspection inside nations to protect against violation in the use of the bomb.

HAYS WANTS TO RETURN TO JOB AS HIS HEAD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 4 — Lt. Col. Harold L. Hays, former superintendent of the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School, said today he expects to be out of the army soon and wants to return to his old job.

He said he returns to Camp Atterbury, Ind., next Monday for a physical check up. He served overseas with the 37th division.

Hays formerly was superintendent of the soldiers' and sailors' orphans home at Xenia. Ralph M. Alvis, former state highway patrolman, has been acting superintendent at Lancaster.

PORTALES, N. M. (U.P.)—Solution of the student housing problem at Eastern New Mexico College at Portales was announced when school officials disclosed they had obtained 100 housing units from the Fort Sumner Airport, recently inactivated by the Army.

FLIERS TO OPEN SEASON WITH 3 TOUGH GAMES

COLUMBUS, O. Jan. 5—Three prominent college quintets, Capital, Otterbein, and the Ohioans will meet the Lockbourne Fliers next week to inaugurate the regular basketball season.

"The numerous passes and furloughs over the holidays along with additional discharges and other shipments have completely disrupted the squad" revealed coach John Schlosser, "but no matter what develops, we will have a team on the floor come Tuesday."

Gordon Morrison and B. L. Greenberg, both first-string material, have left the base along with Joe Karkasch, another promising cager.

The Fliers will definitely be the underdogs at Loy Gym Tuesday for Capital University boasts an undefeated season and is out to repeat the twin trouncing handed LAAB in two clashes last year. A powerful offensive club, the Caps have registered 185 points in three games this season.

On Wednesday evening, Otterbein University at Westerville will entertain the local cagers in what appears to be another hotly contested match. Thursday night's encounter with the Ohioans at the Base Gym will conclude the jam-packed sports week. This outfit is an independent squad hailing from Ohio State and is made up of familiar grid names including Hal Daugherty, and Ollie Cline.

Since many of the local cagers are not in top condition, all will see an equal amount of action.

Tony Dentic, high scorer in practice games to date, and Fred Pickard will start at forward. Bill Satterfield will be in at center and Joe DeBratte and Richard Flinn are slated for the guard posts.

Pickaway County Rationing Board Becomes Price Control Board

TWO WORKERS TO CONTINUE IN OFFICE HERE

Check On Ceilings In Effort To Combat Inflation Chief Task Of Board

With nothing but sugar left to ration, the rationing department of the local OPA office has been dissolved and the local board will henceforth be known as the Price Control board instead of the War Price and Rationing board. George D. McDowell, chairman, announced Saturday.

Henceforth the board will devote its time to enforcing retail ceilings. Sugar rationing will be handled by the office staff which has now dwindled to two persons after reaching a one-time peak of 10 employees plus dozens of volunteers during the real rationing rush.

At the zenith of the system which brought planned war-necessary sacrifice to every home in the county, the board operated through six panels. Now only one panel—the price control panel, with Donald Mason as chairman, remains.

The five panels, now discontinued, and their chairmen and functions were: mileage, Paul Johnson and E. C. Rector, tires, autos, bicycles and gasoline; food, Donald Mason, sugar, coffee, processed foods and meats; commodities, Clarence Helvering, fuel oil, stoves, shoes, rubber boots, kerosene and typewriters; community service, Glen Geib, and volunteer recruiting, Miss Rose Good.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger, first chairman of the board, was succeeded by Mr. McDowell.

Only two employees remain at the local office—Mrs. Myra Rader, chief clerk, and Miss Henrietta Stocklin. Miss Rosemary Horn and Mrs. Stella Groce recently left the office.

The two workers left will have charge of price surveys, issuing sugar sheets and taking care of all other office work. The price panel will continue in operation in line with the national program to prevent runaway inflation.

DELAPLAINE AND MARKLEY WILLS PROBATED HERE

Two wills have been probated in Pickaway county probate court.

Will of Hattie Lee Markley, Ashville, for an estate estimated at $4,000 in value, designates that all real and personal property shall go to the deceased's son, Robert J. Ellyson, who has been appointed executor. The will was written May 18, 1938.

Will of Sarah E. Delaplaine, Circleville, for an estate valued at $2900 reads that deceased's automobile and her radio shall be given to her son, Lincoln D. Delaplaine, Miami, Fla., and the balance of the estate to a daughter, Florence D. D. Newton, Shaker Heights, Cleveland.

STREET OPENS UP TO SWALLOW TRUCK-TRAILER

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 5.—Arthur Reedy stopped his truck, loaded with 14 tons of angle-iron, at a traffic light in downtown Zanesville. Suddenly he seemed to have a sinking feeling.

When he got out to investigate, his big tractor-trailer resembled a gopher backing down its hole. The street caved in, and the rear of the trailer was about 15 feet below street level.

Travel increase at Yellowstone park showed a 108 per cent increase in 1945 over 1944.

Pickaway County Rationing Board Becomes Price Control Board

TWO WORKERS TO CONTINUE IN OFFICE HERE

Check On Ceilings In Effort To Combat Inflation Chief Task Of Board

With nothing but sugar left to ration, the rationing department of the local OPA office has been dissolved and the local board will henceforth be known as the Price Control board instead of the War Price and Rationing board, George D. McDowell, chairman, announced Saturday.

Henceforth the board will devote its time to enforcing retail ceilings. Sugar rationing will be handled by the office staff which has now dwindled to two persons after reaching a onetime peak of 10 employees plus dozens of volunteers during the real rationing rush.

At the zenith of the system which brought planned war-necessary sacrifice to every home in the county, the board operated through six panels. Now only one panel—the price control panel, with Donald Mason as chairman, remains.

The five panels, now discontinued, and their chairmen and functions were: mileage, Paul Johnson and E. C. Rector, tires, autos, bicycles and gasoline; food, Donald Mason, sugar, coffee, processed foods and meats; commodities, Clarence Helvering, fuel oil, stoves, shoes, rubber boots, kerosene and typewriters; community service, Glen Geib, and volunteer recruiting, Miss Rose Good.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger, first chairman of the board, was succeeded by Mr. McDowell.

Only two employees remain at the local office—Mrs. Myra Rader, chief clerk, and Miss Henrietta Stocklin. Miss Rosemary Horn and Mrs. Stella Groce recently left the office.

The two workers left will have charge of price surveys, issuing sugar sheets and taking care of all other office work. The price panel will continue in operation in line with the national program to prevent runaway inflation.

DELAPLAINE AND MARKLEY WILLS PROBATED HERE

Two wills have been probated in Pickaway county probate court. Will of Hattie Lee Markley, Ashville, for an estate estimated at $4,000 in value, designates that all real and personal property shall go to the deceased's son, Robert J. Ellyson, who has been appointed executor. The will was written May 18, 1938.

Will of Sarah E. Delaplaine, Circleville, for an estate valued at $2900 reads that deceased's automobile and her radio shall be given to her son, Lincoln D. Delaplaine, Miami, Fla., and the balance of the estate to a daughter, Florence D. D. Newton, Shaker Heights, Cleveland.

STREET OPENS UP TO SWALLOW TRUCK-TRAILER

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 5.—Arthur Reedy stopped his truck, loaded with 14 tons of angle-iron, at a traffic light in downtown Zanesville. Suddenly he seemed to have a sinking feeling.

When he got out to investigate, his big tractor-trailer resembled a gopher backing down its hole. The street caved in, and the rear of the trailer was about 15 feet below street level.
